

DIALOGOS: DR. WIDDOWSON ON EXPOSING THE ABORIGINAL INDUSTRY

Posted on August 2, 2018 by D. Sarantis

The controversial Dr. Frances Widdowson joins us in a talk about exposing the "Aboriginal Industry" in Canada.

The interview touches on her book "Disrobing the Aboriginal Industry: The Deception Behind  Indigenous Cultural Preservation," Ontario school's push to teach "Indigenous Ways of Knowing," and Dr. Widdowson's most recent controversial presentation, "Does University Indigenization Threaten Open Inquiry," at Wilfrid Laurier University.

Dr. Widdowson is a professor from Mount Royal University in Calgary. She was recently invited to Lindsay Shepherd's Laurier's Society of Free Speech and Open Inquiry to give a talk on Indigenization. In addition, Widdowson runs her own blog, "Offended by Offense," and is a coordinator for the Society of Academic Freedom and Scholarship \(SAFS\).

The photo shows, "Onigoheriago," one of the Mohawk Kings who visited Queen Anne. Painted in 1710, by John Verelst.

